If no, enter comments below:
I am concerned that a broad ordinance will be approved that anyone, anytime, anywhere can build an accessory building anywhere on their property. Will the structure design and size be approved by the Planning Commission and will neighbors be able to give input as to whether the structure will devalue their property because of size, unsafe location, design conflicting with existing structures neighborhood, require a building permit, meet all City of Reno codes? Will there be consideration for excessive building and allowances for emergency evacuation and adequate exit routes required in crowded areas? Will the public in the requested building area be notified in advance of city meeting of proposed building in neighborhoods?
