Considering our regional climate, will an environmental impact study be requested or required prior to any forward movement on the proposed usage for these two spaces as data centers? I'm strongly opposed, given the increasing evidence/research on water and energy usage for data centers.

I am in support of the Webb Data Center and opposed to the appeal brought forth by the Sierra Club. This project will provide creation of jobs for both the Construction side and the operational side of the Data Center with our area hedging on a downturn, I feel we should support this project, not to mention the tax revenue the Data Center will generate. There is a demand for technology storage space and we should take advantage of that need for a facility here in Reno.

I am in favor of the Webb Data Center. The project would also enhance Reno's growing reputation as a technology and data hub, attracting further investment from high-tech industries. Data centers often drive infrastructure improvements, such as better power and internet connectivity, which can benefit both businesses and residents. Given Reno's strategic location and favorable business climate, this development would strengthen the city's long-term economic growth.

I was born and raised in Reno, NV, and I fully support the Webb Data Center project while opposing the appeal brought forward by the Sierra Club. This development will provide significant benefits to Northern Nevada, including the creation of construction jobs that will directly support many local residents. Additionally, the project is expected to generate approximately $5.5 million in tax revenue for the City of Reno over its lifespan, with an additional $1.7 million during construction. With the growing demand for AI and technology storage space, it is essential to invest in cutting-edge data centers to ensure we remain competitive, spur economic growth, and stay at the forefront of innovation. Opposing developments like this creates uneasiness about Northern Nevada's future as a place for career growth. If we are labeled as being unfriendly to development, it could weaken us as a community. We need to welcome projects like this to bring in the revenue necessary for the success of initiatives such as the Revitalizing Reno projects.
