APPLICATION FOR (Christopher SEAN SAVOY)

September 30, 2022

Explain briefly why you would like to be appointed to this board or commission?

Included on the form:

I have been a life-long resident of the City of Reno. I have served the city as the creator and later commissioner/chair of the Human Rights Commission. I live, work, shop, gym, etc. in Ward 3, and I love my city and community. It is important to me to see the city prosper in business, sustainable growth environmentally, and culturally. I am committed while I live here to seeing greater things happen for Reno. My record (see resume attached) of service and my background demonstrate my abilities, interests, and my commitment to serving Reno.

Additional information:

Ward 3 is known to be the diverse ward: socio-economically, racially, ethnically and otherwise in the City of Reno. I believe it is important to continue the record of representation of the ward on the Council with a person who understands and has experienced diversity and is inclusive in the approach to public service. Not only am I a first-generation American (on one side), Hispanic in origin (and therefore bilingual), as well as pan-ethnic, I am also the product of parents who were of different generations and cultures (one from the Great Depression era, the other from the Baby Boomer era). Having reached the mid-century mark in terms of my own age, I'm proud to say that I am a native Renoite, born and reared in Reno, with my home, my education, my career and my friendships all revolving in and around a commitment to this community. A dive into knowing additional aspects of myself as a person, and facets of my training, education, interests, my vocations and avocations will further demonstrate my understanding of the importance of inclusivity and equity in all aspects of society.

As my record will show, I have a history of leadership in the non-profit world of business, health and fitness, healthcare, well-being, education and counseling, media-communications, the spiritual sciences, arts and culture, and in advocacy for marginalized communities, all of which demonstrates my unwavering commitment to making our community one that provides cultural, educational and business opportunities, quality of life, needed social and civic services, infrastructure, and even refuge for those who seek it, whether they are the aged, the poor, the small business owner, or other persons or entities in need of a hand across the table to do better and be better.

Can our city and our ward provide even more to the whole of city government and the community-at-large in terms of leadership when important conversations and decisions are needed and must be made? Yes, I believe we can, but to do so involves engagement with people, an understanding of the challenges facing us with regard to the social determinants of health (housing, etc.), the ability to listen and communicate effectively across neighborhoods and across media platforms, and a real interest in breaking down barriers while being clear on limitations – financial or other – but while also seeing the potential for improvement, necessary change and growth.

One of the keys to being able to be an effective representative of the people and the community as a whole is the ability to work with others, at the table, across the proverbial aisle, and within the structure of government bureaucracies. City management and city staff are integral to government efficacy and efficiency. Being able to work with them is tantamount to success.

In healthcare we talk in terms of the interdisciplinary team: the doctor, the nurse, the social worker, the spiritual care practitioner, the case manager and other specialists. All these people representing different disciplines must work together with one objective in mind – the health of the person and family we are working for. We also understand as a team that we cannot sacrifice the entity within which we function – that is the hospital or healthcare system – for lack of fiscal responsibility or disregard for regulations, efficiencies, or a respect for the resources of our own time and the money that keeps us operational. While the ultimate return on the investment is the health of our clients, maintaining the health of the community in which we serve and by which we are able to help the individuals who come through our doors is also our responsibility.

The same for a city with its various departments and offices. Our commitment must be to the people while at the same time pledging ourselves to stewarding and caring for the overall health of municipal institutions, workers, and the many partners who keep the machine well oiled.

I look forward to the opportunity to interview for the position of Ward 3 Council Member to further demonstrate how I believe my background of experience, talent and interest will benefit the City Council and ultimately the City of Reno.
