Interests & Experiences

Education or training relevant to the board or commission to which you are applying:

In 2014, I completed my undergraduate studies in Anthropology with an emphasis in Archaeology. Since then, I have gained significant experience as an archaeological field technician, with responsibilities that include the recordation, excavation, and preservation of prehistoric and historic artifacts. My field work has primarily taken place in the western United States, providing me with a breadth of knowledge regarding the unique cultural, political, and economic developments of this region. In particular, through numerous projects conducted in Nevada, I have developed a comprehensive understanding of the state's rich history, allowing me to make informed contributions to discussions and decision-making processes related to the preservation and interpretation of Nevada's cultural heritage. I also had the pleasure of serving as a member of the Provo (Utah) City Planning Commission between 2020-2022. During my tenure on the commission, I developed an appreciation for the importance of achieving balance between the demands of progress and the preservation of historical resources. My service on the commission equipped me with the knowledge and skills to navigate complex city codes and guidelines, particularly in relation to city planning, as well as their application to the preservation and restoration of historically significant buildings and sites.

Explain briefly why you would like to be appointed to this board or commission.

Growing up in Fallon, a town with a rich and diverse history, instilled in me a deep appreciation for preserving and celebrating our local cultural legacies. I was particularly drawn to the historic buildings and landmarks that populate Fallon's streets, each of which tells a story about the town's past and its people. Since moving to Reno, I have been inspired by the depth and diversity of historical resources that are present as well as the ongoing efforts of individuals and organizations to preserve them. I feel that our town's cultural and historical resources are important assets that should be cherished and protected for future generations to enjoy, which is why I am excited for the opportunity to serve on Reno's Historical Resource Commission. With my professional experience in cultural resource management and my volunteer experience as a civil servant, I believe I am a well-suited candidate for this position. I have developed a strong research background and am skilled in conducting historical analysis. Additionally, I understand the importance of balancing the needs of development and progress with the preservation of our city's historical resources, and I am confident that I could contribute to the commission's efforts in finding creative solutions to these challenges. As a member of the historical resources commission, I would be honored to serve as an advocate for our community's heritage resources. I strongly believe in the importance of protecting the integrity of these resources, while also ensuring that they are accessible and enjoyed by individuals and groups across our community. I recognize that heritage resources may hold different meanings for different groups and communities, and I am committed to honoring and celebrating this diversity. My goal would be to engage with underrepresented groups and increase their involvement in preservation efforts. By amplifying their voices and perspectives, we can create a more inclusive and equitable approach to historic preservation that reflects the full range of experiences and beliefs within our community. I am passionate about historic preservation and would be thrilled to serve on the Historical Resources Commission. The commission plays a critical role in preserving our community's history and cultural legacy, and I would love to contribute my skills and expertise to this important effort.
